As Mr. Hitt took his seat, a warm burst of Republican applausa greeted him.

Mr. Rayner was evidently annoyed because his party associates failed to encourage him with sympathetic appliause, while the Republicans were so quick to respond to every sentiment he uttered that seemed to spring from patriotism. The only Democratic appliause he reveived was when he closed his peroration and took his seat, and even that was far from enthusiastic. The fact is that the Democrats have been strangely indifferent to speeches in support of the Administration since this debate began. The attendance of Democratic members has been exceedingly slim, and those who have been present have appeared to feel little interest in and less sympathy with the warblings of the "cuckoos," while, on the other hand, they listened attentively to the splendid speech of Mr. Hitt in opposition to the Administration's policy.

The indications are that Russia and Japan will comply with the request of this Government in the matter, and that each will have a small fleet of vessels cruising along their northeastern coasts during the period. So far the efforts of the State Department to get from England definite promises as to what her vessels will do in the work of patrolling the vast scaling ground have not been very fruitful. vides for the issue of sliver certificates in amount equal to the gain or seigniorage that may accrue on the coinage of the sliver buillon now in the Treasury purchased under the Sherman act of July. INC. This seigniorage is stated by Secretary Carlisle in his annual report to be $5.155.53. The object of the bill is to make this amount immediately available for the current expenses of the Government. It is clear, the report says, that the bullion was delicated to the resumption of the Treasury notes issued in the purchase of the builton for such redemption, and chat the law itself provides for the payment of any gain or seigniorage into the Treasury. The bill does not change the terms of the law in this respect, but simply hastens its execution. This view of the law is held by the Secretary of the Treasury and so stated in his annual report. The law is plain that no notes shall remain ourstanding beyond the amount of dollars coined from the builton held for the redemption of the notes and the cost price of the builton.

Charles W. Stone (Rep. Penn.) filed a report.
